

ABSTRACT

An improved process for the cryo-preservation of plants, especially for the direct cryo-preservation of plant tissues. This process includes the steps of dehydrating, pre-freezing and cryo-freezing plant derived tissue, with the improvement being that the plant tissue to be 5 cryo-preserved is a primary explant that has been subjected an induction treatment for regeneration.